

There's really no need for the ridiculous, inane conversations people get into on planes via cell phone. It's also a risk to transmissions from the cockpit and tower, etc. You can either call right before boarding or right after deplaning!